

Chest X-ray quiz

Answer and discussion

Yes, you would now be happy with the position of the pulmonary artery catheter (black arrow). The central vein catheter is in an unaltered position (white arrow). The endotracheal tube has been removed. The two apical and two basal drains remain in an unaltered position, as does the intragastric tube. There is still some blunting of both costophrenic angles, otherwise lung fields are clear.

For question see page 105 of this issue.

